

Library of Congress Veterans History Project -- Partner Application Form

The Veterans History Project (VHP) at the Library of Congress American Folklife Center is a national volunteer effort focused on preserving veterans' wartime stories. If your organization can meet one or more of the VHP's criteria, please complete application form below. The criteria include:

- Submit to the Library of Congress 25 veterans' oral history interviews or more annually
- Actively publicize or promote the Veterans History Project
- Host VHP related public events in your region

The Veterans History Project provides interview and recording guidelines, educational and instructional materials, and required documentation forms on its Web site, www.loc.gov/vets. Please review and distribute this material to your volunteer interviewers.

Partners and their designated points-of-contact will be posted on the VHP Web site, unless you specifically request otherwise via mail or email.

Once accepted as an official Partner, you will be asked to complete an online RENEWAL FORM annually. This simple and short renewal form allows the Veterans History Project to maintain accurate and up-to-date partner contact information, as well as be informed on partner activities in support of the VHP. Your program officer will provide you with the URL to the renewal form once you are accepted as an official partner.
